CRAZY INTERVIEW NO. 7

IRVING—THE OSMOND BROTHER THEY NEVER TALK ABOUT

Writer: Michael Weiss

Artist: Mural Gumen

Hello, this is Week Douglas and I'm speaking today with a member of America's most talented family! Let's have a warm CRAZY welcome to IRVING OSMOND! Irving, I'm sure everyone watching wants to know one thing—are you a little bit Country or a little bit Rock 'N' Roll?

Uh... actually I'm a little bit Nervous!

Irving, it's a well-known fact that the Osmonds are very involved with the Mormon Church! Is anyone in your family a member of the Mormon Tabernacle Choir?

Are you kidding? My family IS the Mormon Tabernacle Choir!

Considering how many children there are in your family, would you say that you're close to your parents?

Heck no! In fact, I've hardly ever seen em!

How come?

They spend most of their time behind closed doors!

Behind closed doors? Doing what?

Considering the number of kids in our family, that ain't too hard to figure out!

I've heard you can't sing, act or dance. Are your parents upset since you have no talents they can capitalize on?

At first they were, but not anymore. They've finally found a way to use me!

How's that?

They've gotten me a regular role on LAVERNE AND SHIRLEY—where my lack of talent will go unnoticed!

What did you do before you got the part?

I was the family bookkeeper. When it comes to numbers, I'm a Wizard!

The Wizard of Osmond?

Uh... something like that!

Is anyone in your family working on any special projects?

Yes. First, Danny and Marie are playing the lead in "The Autobiography of Dr. Renee Richards".

I don't understand! How can they both play the lead?

Well, Danny plays the "before" part and Marie plays the "after"!

Any other projects?

Yes. Because the time seems right, we're coming out with a special about the ancestry of the Osmond family!

What's it to be called?

ROCK 'N' ROOTS!

Irving, I don't mean to sound disrespectful, but I'm harboring serious doubts as to the fact that you're really Danny and Marie's brother!

Oh, yeah? How's this for proof?

Well, that's good enough for me! This is Week Douglas, signing off!

ATTENTION WORLD: THE POLISH CENTENNIAL IS NOW CELEBRATING 14 YEARS OF PROGRESS...

In CRAZY #47 in part 3 of "How Supermarkets Drive Customers Crazy" you put Rule One on Rule Two and Rule Two on Rule One

Robin Williams
Cleveland, Okla.

Dear Robin,
Now you know how supermarkets drive customers crazy!

My friend and I have captured the Nebbish. If you don't furnish us with a plane going to Poland, one million parachutes and two dollars, the Nebbish gets it!

Chuck & Tony Polanski
Honolulu, Hawaii

Dear Chuck & Tony,
Promises! Promises! Can we depend on that?

I read your letters all the time and there's always some jerk who writes about how stupid your magazine is. I think it's great. So to all you CRAZY haters, I say: "PHFFFFFFFT!"

Jack Mershon
New Brighton, Minn.

Dear Jack,
You do have a way with words!

CRAZY No. 50 had the dumbest Superman jokes in the world!

Jeff Weber
Centreville, Mich.

Dear Jeff,
That's because somebody spilled kryptonite in our printers' ink!

In CRAZY #47 you really goofed up the picture of John Wayne!

Sandra Porter
Teulon, Man.

Dear Sandra,
Wanna make sumptin' of it? Put up your Dukes!

Why don't you do an issue on "Who's Watching The Kids"? If you do, send me one!

Janice Ewacha
Spruce Grove, Alb.

Dear Janica,
One what? A copy of CRAZY or a kid?

...though your magazine is out of this world, a bit further out would be appreciated!

G. P. Baxter
Carterton, New Zealand

Dear G.P.,
How much further out can you get then where you are?

I would have written you a longer letter, except my pen is running out of ink

Billy Cullen
Sackville, N.S.

Dear Billy,
Good. We were running out of patience with your latter!

I read Crazy because of its stimulating intellectual content...

Chuck Kenyon
Chamberlain, S.D.

Dear Chuck,
Stop talking like a child!

If you don't print my letter I'll put fingernail polish all over the next issue I get

Jenny Buchanan
Galloway, Ohio

Dear Jenny,
Hooboy, will our face be red!

My favorite TV show is Battlestar Galactica, but I think I liked your takeoff Battlestar Galackluster better. Your magazine is getting crazier all the time.

Kenyetta Dickneite
Centralia, Mo.

Dear Kenyetta,
Getting crazier is okay — as long as we don't lack lustre!

Why aren't you doing foreign films anymore — with those English translations alongside?

Stephen Hete, Jr
Vernon, N.J.

Dear Stephen,

"Why not?"

IMPEACH
BILLY
CARTER

BUTTON OF THE MONTH

Why are superheroes always in Crazy?

Todd Jordon
Whitefield, N.H.

Dear Todd,

Same reason like yours are always in Crazy — mainly, we'll never know!

I know you won't print this letter in Crazy because I'm always right

Steve Sensic
Hammond, Ind.

Dear Steve,

We're printing it because we're always wrong!

I just ready Crazy #48 and what kept me laughing was Randy Eploy's "Twas The Night Before Christmas"

Billy Haupt
Atlantic Bch., Fla.

Dear Billy,

That's the right spirit!

Your article "The Punk Rock Song Book" is not at all like Punk Rock. To tell you the truth — it's worse!

Pamela Ballan
Paula Fernandez
W. C., Ca.

Dear Pamela & Paula,

Thanks for the compliment!

I found a blooper in the "People in The News" article in CRAZY #47. You have a guy there who was supposed to have his ears cut off, and yet he still had one in the drawing. That's really smart!

Russ Kracke
St. Charles, Mo.

Dear Russ,

Not only is it smart — it disproves the theory: "ear today, gone tomorrow!"

Who is that stupid, ugly little porcupine on your letters page — with those stubby little hands and a face that looks like a witch?

Rory O'Connor
Woodside, N.Y.

Dear Rory,

That's no way to talk about our proofreader!

After reading "You Know You're Really Ugly When..." in CRAZY #50, I'm afraid to look in the mirror now

Lisa Laplante
Amherst, Ma.

Dear Lisa,

You're not alone. That's a reflection of how most of our readers feel!

I just started buying CRAZY and I love it! In issue #50 those Hustle lessons made me the popular girl in class! The car-owner's nightmare was a dream! Howard The Duck was a quack! You Know You're Really Ugly When... was beautiful! I could go on and on, but I won't! Nuff said?

Rebecca Brown
Edmond, Okla.

Dear Rebecca,

Not on your life... keep talking!

• • •

In issue #48 you made two mistakes. On the contents page you forgot to include "Theme Songs For Different Occupations". And on page 14, instead of saying New Year's Eve, you said New Year's Even!

Dawn Moll
Allentown, Pa.

Dear Dawn,

That's okay — the second one "evens" out the list!

• • •

One thing puzzles me. On the cover of #48 you had The Wiz — but nothing about it in the magazine. Why was this?

Bobby Freestone
Wappingers Falls, N.Y.

Dear Bobby,

Like we said on that front cover — in that issue we gave the Wiz the Biz!

DO YOU REALIZE
THAT IF LEE MARVIN
MARRIED LEE MARVIN,
SHE'D BE
LEE MARVIN?

Your mag is the best I have ever read! Keep on putting it out!

Trae Thompson
Bessemer, Ala.

Dear Trae,

We will — if you keep putting out your 60¢ every month!

I hope you have a story on Love Boat soon

Edie Schade
Trotman, N.C.

Dear Edie,

You missed the Boat — we did it three issues ago!

I think you guys have the worst proofreader. In Battlerise Galackdustre (Issue #48) you kept changing around the last two letters of Galackdustre. You should be more careful!

Patrick Lindley
Montrose, Colo.

Dear Patrick,

Remember — to "er" is human!

Neededmore, I refuse to allow those subhuman students to remain on my campus any longer!

You [Idiot] What other group of perverted smart-alecks can there be... whose main purpose is to drive us crazy?

Don't bother... you may forget to start again! There's only one bunch around here who follows the golden sit-com rule set in shows like "McHale's Navy", "Hogan's Heroes", and "Welcome Back, Kotter" that of making authority figures look like dim-witted clods! Well, I won't stand for it any longer! Once and for all we're going to get rid of those frat brothers from...

If you mean the monkeys in the Biology Department, sir, I don't believe they're even enrolled!

Let me stop to think, sir...

TV SATIRE:

DOLTISH HOUSE

Writer: Murad Gumen

Artist: John Reiner

Hey, Bloated... I see you've got two tickets to the zoo! Can I tag along?

Are you kidding? I'm going to need 'em both... one to get in, and one to get out!

That was a mean trick, D-Dope. I mean, putting a pin on my seat!

Sorry, Rounder... I just wanted to see if you'd go FFFFF and fly around the room!

Hold it down for a second, guys... there are a couple of stooges at the door!

Hi, my name's Moe, and these are my friends Curly and Larry! We heard Doltish House is just our kind of place... can we join?

Sorry, fellas! We just can't use any more repulsiveness, violence and bad taste... we have all we can handle now!

Boy, college is just a barrel of laughs! But all our mischiefmaking is getting to be hard work! I wish I had some time to waste for myself, doing those fun little trivial things that make life more bearable!

Like what?

Like studying! Hey, look... D-Dape is beating somebody up, as usual!

Why... It's Heart, from the Paper Choker!

Yeah! Whatsamatta, you tryin' to ruin the reputation we have for our "underwater" marks?

It's crums like you who give the students around here a bad name, you study-oholic creep!

U-underwater marks?

He means, below C-level!

Blasted, I know you love beer, but don't you think guzzling down 53 gallons is overdoing it a little? And that's only in the lost half-hour! Admit it, you have a drinking problem... you need help!

Okay, okay! So help me get the cops off all these NOTICES!

Did you guys hear about the newest competition on campus?

Oh, no! Don't tell me I'm gonna be asked to save the day again! I think I did more than my part in that football game, the boxing match, and the tiddlywinks tournament! You fellas are just gonna have to find a new champion!

Aw, gee, Blasted... we were really counting on you to come through for us in the upcoming Foker College Beauty Contest!

Odor, you're the "brains" around here! When are we gonna have some action?

Odor's a little down, D-Dape... the last girl he asked out wanted to bring a date! And the girl before that showed him a photo when he asked to "see her home!"

Well, I'm not gonna stick around anymore... I need some excitement!

RAT-TAT-A-TAT

What was that?

I think that's D-Dape's car backfiring... while he's using passengers as target practice!

No, that's D-Dape's sub-machine gun firing... while he's using passengers as target practice!

Oooh, that adorable little silly!

I don't know what's the matter with today's youth! Why, I remember my days in college... all five of them! Whatever happened to those harmless fads and pranks we used to pull... like swallowing goldfish?

In a way that's still around, Dean! Bloated recently started a new trend by chewing down some live plantha! And don't forget panty raids are still in style!

Yes, but it's different now... these days the girls have to be wearing them!

It's all because of those Dolfish House loanys! I just can't afford to have them embarrass me any more with their stunts!

Why the urgency, sir?

LIFE Magazine is set to interview me in its "Outstanding College Dean" series! So we must get rid of Dolfish House... and the way to break them up is to demoralize them! We just won't let them get under our skin any more! Next time they pull a prank on us... we'll laugh at them!

HA-HA!
HA-HA!

Wait until they pull the prank first, nitwit!

What are you doing, Bloated?

Hover told me Odor's depression is gonno lost until the cows come home... so I thought I might hurry things along a bit!

BLOATED! WATCH OUT FOR

SLIP!

One good thing about our series... it brought the "sight" gag back to television!

I'm not sure if all those gags are such a good idea... just get a load of that sight!

Odor, you gotta snap out of it! In order to lead us to merry-making and moyhem, you gotta think straight!

No use... all he's thinking about are curves!

Hey... you haven't lost your touch with the girls, buddy! Why don't you prove it to yourself... come and meet a cute little number I just got introduced to myself!

Yeah? What do you call her?

"Seven"!

You know... she doesn't look half-bad! But why is she walking sideways?

I told her she has a great profile!

Oh-oh! It's no good, men! I just recognized her!

Huh?

She's that snotty Southern bird from the Gamma De laughta Sorority ... Mary Lowdi

Oh, no! The chick from "Brothers and Sisters"... and the other show exploiting the new "Campus Fraternity" theme!

Aw, man! What's this going to do to my "Co-ed Fever"...

Hey, look! We don't have to hear about that third rip-off either!

Yeah... our show is bad enough! But three of the same scheduled in one TV season... I mean, that's cruel

That's the last straw, lods! There's only one thing which can get us out of this rut...

An extra-large fudge sundae, heavy on the syrup?

No, Rounder... he means playing a dirty trick on Dean Wormy! Now that's our good ol' Odor talking!

Don't forget, Needledmare... the next time those Daltish creatures humiliate you, laugh in their faces! We can all do with more laughter anyway!

That's right, sir... the sound of people laughing can be very uplifting!

Except when you're changing a flat tire, you nincampaap!

SQUISH!

Hoo-hee-ho-ho! This is the best one we've pulled yet!

Okay, Bloated! You can take our friend back to the zoo now...

Mumble, mumble... %$&*! (%$!)

Temper, sir! Remember... laugh in their faces!

LAUGH? You idiot, how can I... oh! Of course... laugh! Er... hee! Ho-ho-ho! HO-HO-HOI

Hey! Wormy's not getting angry!

H-he's laughing at us!

This is SERIOUS!

Gee whiz... we kidnapped the Dean's wife, sold her to a white slave ring, decorated his office with the latest in raw sewage, rigged on explosive on his car which blew up with him in it, and set his clock ahead 15 minutes!

Yeah, but we still can't get him mad at us!

Good grief! There's nothing left to live for!

Already our personalities are starting to change! Bloating has forgotten he's a disgusting pig!

Now, the knife is set next to the fork, my good man... and always remember to place the napkin on your lap!

Raunder's on a "weight-loss" kick, and won't touch his food!

I refuse to eat an on empty stomach!

...and D-Dope has begun to preach non-violence! He's calling himself... now get this... o... (yechh)... hippie!

Flower, anyone?

Is this the end of Daltish House? I even have my doubts about you, Odar... you're not as smart as you used to be!

What do you mean by that crack?

I can't believe you broke ten mirrors yesterday, so you could live another seventy years!

Let's stop in here, sweetie... I'd like to meet some typical Faker College students!

Mr. Kapute, by the end of this interview, you'll know what makes me an outstanding dean... I run a decent, respectable school, and I know my kids! You won't find anything scandalous here!

Well, I have faith in human nature, Mr. Warmly... so don't try to discourage me!

D-Daltish House? Er... wait! I've a much better fraternity house to show you!

Oh, goody! On the way, perhaps we can get to know each other better... after all, you're kinda (tee-hee) cute!

On the other hand, the bays in Daltish ore os (echh)! typical as you can get! Heh-heh...

ENTER AT YOUR OWN RISK

We all know that homework is the most boring experience invented by man (or woman too). We also know that experience is the best teacher. So why not put a little more "action" into homework and remove some of the boredom. Now, you may ask? Simple! Just read these CRAZY new ways...

HOW TO MAKE HOMEWORK MORE EXCITING

Writer: Roger Francis

Artist: Charles Nicholas

SUBJECT: ENGLISH

ASSIGNMENT: Enter a saloon and talk in perfect grammar — then listen to all the laughs as they call you a foreigner.

ASSIGNMENT: Write for CRAZY — which won't make you a genius — but will prove how unnecessary good English is.

SUBJECT: BIOLOGY

ASSIGNMENT: Instead of frogs, get a more realistic view of dissection by walking thru a ghetto after dark.

ASSIGNMENT: Study human reproduction by seeing an X-rated movie, then reporting your findings in show and tell.

SUBJECT: CHEMISTRY

ASSIGNMENT: Extract all dyes and artificial flavorings from your next meal, then see if they burn a hole in your plate.

ASSIGNMENT: Study the remainder of those foods under your microscope and attempt to discover their age in centuries.

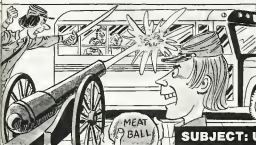

SUBJECT: MATHEMATICS

ASSIGNMENT: Go to the nearest Off-Track Betting Office and learn how long it takes for your $25 to equal zero.

ASSIGNMENT: Discover all the many facets of multiplication by peeking into cars at your local drive-in movie.

SUBJECT: U. S. HISTORY

ASSIGNMENT: Act out the Civil War in your backyard — or better still, start a whole new war over bussing.

ASSIGNMENT: Make like Paul Revere and wake up everybody shouting: "The Prices Are Rising! The Prices Are Rising!"

SUBJECT: PHYSICS

ASSIGNMENT: Learn about the laws of gravity by dropping objects off buildings — then learn still more about the laws of littering.

ASSIGNMENT: Eat a lot of bread and cheese — then realize why it is so important to know all about things like physics.

SUBJECT: CURRENT EVENTS

ASSIGNMENT: Start a collection of newspaper clippings about corrupt politicians — which means save entire newspapers.

ASSIGNMENT: Do your part to curb food costs by not eating — so in dying, you'll do your part to curb overpopulation.

THE CRAZY BOOK OF FIRST AID

or What To Do Until The Undertaker Comes

WARNING: FOLLOWING THE INSTRUCTIONS IN THIS BOOK IS HAZARDOUS TO YOUR HEALTH.

Writer: Warren Emery

Artist: Al Scoduto

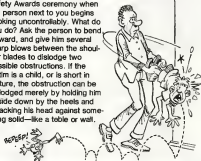

FRACTURES

As we all know, athletes are exceptionally injury-prone. One can treat a broken limb with a temporary splint. Tree limbs, tent stakes, and broom sticks make excellent leg splints. If none of these materials is handy, than a ski, golf club, hockey stick, pool post or back-board will suffice. Support all fractures or sprains by applying a splint and securing it tightly with a rope (unless, of course, it's a sprained neck.) Whenever there is swelling or pain around an injured bone, assume the limb is fractured and proceed to immobilize it. This can be done with the use of a baseball bat or two-by-four—not necessarily as a splint.

CHOKING

You are attending the annual Safety Awards ceremony when the person next to you begins choking uncontrollably. What do you do? Ask the person to bend forward, and give him several sharp blows between the shoulder blades to dislodge two possible obstructions. If the victim is a child, or is short in stature, the obstruction can be dislodged merely by holding him upside down by the heels and smacking his head against something solid—like a table or wall.

UNCONSCIOUSNESS

You arrive at a friend's home one day and find him in the deep-end of his private swimming pool, not moving and not breathing. This leads you to the conclusion that he has drowned. However, upon closer inspection, you notice there is no water in the pool, therefore ruling out that possibility. But his pulse is weak, his breathing shallow, his heartbeat slow, and his Timex still ticking. What should you do? In these cases, time is of the utmost importance. Place the victim face up. If there is foreign matter visible in the throat (Hungarian goulash, Spanish rice, French toast, etc.) remove it quickly. If the windpipe is blocked, you may have to use your finger to wipe it out. If you find this procedure revolting, a stainless-steel throat-scoop may be used. You may also find that the back of the tongue will obstruct the passage of air through the throat, which is where your knife will come in a lot more handy than the stainless steel throat scoop.

Then put one hand under the victim's neck for support, and with the other, pull the head back as far as it will go. (Stop if a sharp "snap" or "crack" is heard.) Next, pull the jaw downward while pinching the nose. Do that to the victim, idiot! Then, while holding the jaw open, take a deep breath and place your mouth over his. Continuing breathing for him through artificial respiration until the victim continues breathing on his own, or until a doctor pronounces him dead—whichever comes first.

POISON IVY

If you think you have touched a poison-ivy plant, wash immediately with soap and water, then apply calamine lotion. Wash your hands, idiot—not the plant! Poison-ivy plants can be very deceptive. In fact, the plant may not act "poison" at all. And though it may have three leaves and foam at the stem, the only way to find out for sure is to have the plant captured and kept under observation. If the plants shows any more signs of "sickness" it may be necessary to have it shot. Note: Although poison-ivy is not a very desired infliction, it can be as reliable as the old hand-buzzer when it comes to practical jokes—especially at graduation ceremonies.

ARTIFICIAL RESPIRATION

Just knowing the meaning of artificial respiration is not enough. It is essential to know the proper method of administering it too. Dr. Carlos Garcia of Peru once gave instructions for artificial respiration over the telephone. Ike Kant, who called Dr. Garcia on the phone, attempted to carry out the doctor's instructions to revive the victim, right there on the spot. The man died of course, as Mr. Kent did not understand Spanish. The point is, determining a victim's ailment and rushing to the nearest phone to alert a doctor, not only requires quick action and a cool head, but also requires a dime.

SNAKE BITE

A neighbor has been bitten on the leg by a snake, and it is up to you to administer the proper first aid, which depends, of course, on whether the snake is harmless or poisonous. Unfortunately, the only way to determine this is to let the snake bite you. If you die from the bite, the snake is poisonous; if you don't, it's not. A word of warning: even if a snake is only slightly venomous, tetanus may set in immediately. Do NOT wait for symptoms to show. Heed them off by enrolling the snake-bite victim in a ventriloquism class before lockjaw sets in.

EYE INJURY

A foreign object in the eye is not only annoying, but can be very painful besides. It is an injury that requires immediate attention. Do not rub the eye and do not attempt to remove the object until you have located it. In an eye injury, if the object is hidden under the upper eyelid, poke at the eye with a blunt instrument (a dull steak knife or an unsharpened pair of scissors will do.) Hopefully the tears caused by this irritation will help wash the object out.

SKIING ACCIDENT

You are in the middle of the Rocky Mountains and your skiing partner has a tragic accident. The telephone wires are down, the ski lift is out of order, the roads are all snowed in, and there isn't even a mailbox. How does your victim get to the hospital? If the address is not immediately known, trudge down the mountainside and find your way to the nearest hospital. Then return to the scene of the accident and tell the victim how he or she can get there herself. However, if you are fortunate enough to have a car, it is very important that the victim be carefully loaded into the back seat, taking care to transport the victim in a lying-down position.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT (With Bleeding)

You see a victim lying next to one of the wrecked autos, bleeding profusely from a severe laceration. Quick! Without delay—what do you do? Right! You clean it, dress it and bind it. Now there are several types of dressings available for flesh wounds, the most popular being vinegar and oil and Thousand Islands. However, in this case salad dressing will not be necessary. Instead, quickly apply a sterile cloth and press firmly. To avoid infection, remove all blood-stained clothes and high-tail it to the nearest laundromat. Do NOT re-apply any cloth till thoroughly washed, rinsed and dried.

POISON BY MOUTH

You come home to find a member of your family lying on the floor with a bottle of shoe polish next to him. What do you do? First of all, if no specific antidote is known, dilute the poison with several glasses of milk, then induce vomiting to remove the poison from the system. This may be done by force-feeding the victim an egg salad, jelly, and ketchup sandwich. If one is not immediately available, a two-month old Big Mac will suffice. Then, before rendering further medical assistance, be sure to outline the victim's body with white chalk—in case the police question you later about the body's positioning.

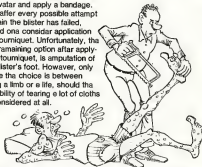

GENERAL SICKNESS

When a person feels "sick to his stomach", have him sit down, placing his head between his knees. This is an excellent exam-day ploy for copying answers from a crib sheet conveniently taped to the bottom of your chair. (However, this can look pretty strange if used while on a date at the movie theatre.) Another advantage of sickness is how quickly a "pain in the stomach" can get you dismissed from a class.

BLISTERS

Wash the affected area with soap and water and apply a bandage. Only after every possible attempt to drain the blister has failed, should one consider application of a tourniquet. Unfortunately, the only remaining option after applying a tourniquet, is amputation of the blister's foot. However, only where the choice is between losing a limb or a life, should the possibility of tearing a lot of cloths be considered at all.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

You arrive at the scene of an automobile accident. Assuming there are others nearby to assist you, here is what you do: 1. Check to see if someone has been thrown into the path of oncoming traffic. If not, ask for a volunteer. 2. A body laid directly across the highway will be very helpful in blocking off traffic from the scene of the accident. 3. Yell at the top of your voice for help.

BACK INJURY

You have just found a friend lying unconscious, spread out on the stairs with a skateboard at his feet. Quick! What do you do? Before administering any first aid whatsoever, arm yourself with a screwdriver and two pairs of pliers and carefully dismantle the back wheels from the skateboard, thus rendering it harmless and incapable of causing further injuries. One can usually tell if there's been a back injury because the victim can not bend his fingers, move his toes, touch his nose with his tongue, or walk and chew gum at the same time. In certain emergencies, it may be necessary to move the victim. Two tent-stakes and a tent-canvas can be used as an excellent make-shift stretcher.

So can a canopy bed. However, if the wounded is obviously in great pain (moaning, groaning and screaming), do him, yourself, and neighbors a big favor: namely, a .38 magnum at point-blank range is incredibly effective at putting a suffering man out of his misery.

STOMACH DISORDERS

Would you know what to do if a child swallowed a large box of roofing nails? Would you know how to remove them? The following are the steps to be taken: 1. Acquire a large horseshoe magnet. 2. Place it against the victim's lower back. 3. Raise it slowly, until you reach the neck. 4. Remove the nails from the victim's throat. If that method fails, gargling with Drano can be extremely effective in bringing things up. Besides that, it's a terrific laxative. Finally, if both procedures fail to extract the nails, the only alternative course of action is an autopsy.

However, extreme caution must be taken to ensure that the victim is indeed dead. The best known method to determine this is to ask him. Nine out of ten times, if the victim answers, he is not yet dead. Nevertheless, a firm judo chop to the Adam's apple will quickly remedy that—thus retrieving the swallowed nails in the bargain. Guaranteed the child won't have the guts to do it again.

SHOCK

The way you act during an emergency has great bearing on the patient's recovery. The confidence and calmness you display will help ease his mind, as he will feel confident that everything has been done that can possibly be done. To prevent an injured person from reverting into shock, have him lie down. Keep the patient lightly-covered, and prevent a loss of body heat by setting the couch or blanket on fire. This will also allow you to protect your feet and on third-degree burns.

THE THREE SIGNS OF SHOCK

1st Sign of Shock: The skin is very clammy and the palms are overly sweaty.

2nd Sign of Shock: The pulse is slightly weak and the face is a little pale.

3rd Sign of Shock: The finger is in a socket, the eyes are bulging, the body vibrates, and the hair stands on end.

ICE RESCUE

It is mid-winter. You and two friends are passing by and notice a drunken man attempting to walk across a local river. However, half-way across, the man falls through the ice. What do you do? If you happen to have one on you, throw the victim a life-preserver. If not, attempt to reach him by forming a human chain. In most water accidents you may be able to reach the victim with a helping hand or a branch. If the victim is too far out, look for something to throw to him. If this rescue attempt fails, then plunge into the water and swim towards the victim with your shirt between your teeth. This is to be used to tow the victim back to shore.

LIFE SAVING

This year in the United States, more than 6,000 people will drown while swimming or taking showers (a comprehensive list of all 6,000 names may be obtained by writing your local Red Cross Center). More than half of those lives could have been saved with the simple use of life-preservers. Remember: swimming expands a lot of energy. Therefore, you will want to eat as big a meal as possible before jumping into the pool. If you are into underwater exploration, this will also help you hit bottom more quickly.

Today you can own everything from a remote control R2D2 to a remote control 18-wheeler. If this keeps up, it won't be long before the remote control toy industry gets completely out of hand. Like this article, which purports to show you...

REMOTE

THE REMOTE CONTROL WOMAN DRIVER — which automatically has fender-benders with other remote control vehicles.

THE REMOTE CONTROL CAT TOY — for people who have mice in their homes, but are allergic to real cat hair.

THE REMOTE CONTROL ARMY TANK — great for frightening away would-be burglars from your home...

...also great for discouraging your visiting friends from drinking too much of your liquor...

...mainly great for creating inexpensive air-conditioning units for your entire home!

THE REMOTE CONTROL MUGGER — hides behind a toy trash can and, when activated, leaps out and mugs a Ken doll...

...in addition, when you press a special button on this unit, he runs over and attacks a Barbie doll!

CONTROL TOYS OF THE FUTURE

Writer: Michael Pollawski

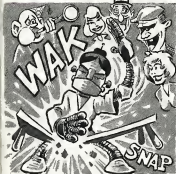

Artist: George Siefinger

THE REMOTE CONTROL GARBAGE TRUCK — very practical, since you can take out the garbage without leaving the house.

THE REMOTE CONTROL FOOTBALL PLAYER — when activated, he carries the entire opposing team with the ball over the line.

THE REMOTE CONTROL KARATE EXPERT — big hit at parties since he performs tricks right in the living room...

...also he is very handy in the kitchen, when you want to prepare a little snack or something...

...mainly he's just the thing for getting even with any friend who has a remote control mugger toy.

THE REMOTE CONTROL TOY MAILMAN — activate him and he just moves slowly along. Very, very slowly...

...what's more, he eventually drops a toy package he's been carrying — one that's marked 'FRAGILE'!

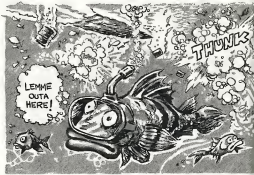

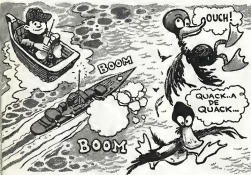

THE REMOTE CONTROL PUPPY — sits up, rolls over and, for an encore, stands up and stains the carpet.

THE REMOTE CONTROL KAMIKAZEE PLANE — takes off and then purposely crashes into the walls and furniture.

THE REMOTE CONTROL FLASHER — we're sure that you can guess exactly what this X-rated adult toy does.

THE REMOTE CONTROL DESTROYER — fun to play with during the hunting season as you can bag all kinds of water fowl...

...in addition, with its toy depth-charges, it makes the perfect gift for fragmen or deep-sea fishermen!

THE REMOTE CONTROL FIGHTER PLANE — when you activate this, it quickly rids your house of flying insects.

THE REMOTE CONTROL PASSENGER TRAIN — when activated, sometimes it goes and sometimes it doesn't.

THE REMOTE CONTROL GIZMO — this is one toy that an inmate of any prison would really love to receive.

CRAZY VISITS A SURFBOARD MANUFACTURER

Writer: Howard Taylor

Artist: Murad Gumen

Hello, there! This is Arnold Finster with another of our CRAZY interviews with the giants of American industry. Today I'm talking to J. Orville Fenderlob, known in the business as the Surfboard King!

I hope the enemy didn't develop on anti-surfboard missile! Anyway, what's the latest surfboard you have on the market?

A group-surfboard for people of groups from 10-20. It comes with a portable fan to make really big waves!

I suppose you have a surfboard for midgets too?

Yes—our mini-surfboard. It's used primarily by midgets in bathtubs who live in windy cities!

Tell me, Mr. Fenderlob... how did you get started in the surfboard business?

During World War Two... we found that when our troops landed on the beaches, the landing boats were bombarded by the enemy. The troops hung on to the wood pieces and rode the waves into shore, thereby confusing the enemy. After that we sent them into battle on surfboards!

Do you make custom surfboards?

We sure do. We have a custom-made job for Siamese Twins—two surfboards joined in the middle. One twin can surf, while the other gets a suntan!

Not only that but my new group-surfboard can be instantly separated and one-half of the group can split off and enjoy one wave, while the other enjoys the first one. They can even race if they want!

Do you have surfboards for different parts of the world?

Any others?

Yes, I have a new surfboard especially designed for the people of Poland. It has wheels on the bottom!

I have a surfboard for South Americans. It overthrows its owner every two weeks! I also have one for the people of Hawaii, where they have those big waves. It comes with a built-in nurse!

Can older people learn to surf?

Yes, I'm working on a board for senior citizens now. It has a night light on it and it's good for up to 60 feet of Geritol!

Do you have inexpensive surfboards for beginners?

I have a board I call our economy model. It has front fin-drive and gets up to 30 knots per wave in the city and 40 in the country!

What one is that?

An invisible surfboard!

Who's that for?

I sell to people who don't surf!

Have you ever been in trouble with your boards? False advertising or defective materials?

I'm prepared for that. I have a new surfboard that recalls itself to the factory... so Ralph Nader won't get to me first!

And I've got an optional attachment consisting of turn-signals for each surfboard so the accident rate is minimized!

Is there anything you wish to say in conclusion?

Yes, surfboards are here to stay—and I have them for the future. Surfboards you can enjoy while you fluoridate the water; surfboards that repel sharks; surfboards that go underneath a wave if you don't like the look of it; and my greatest surfboard yet...

Man, I got the whole world at my feet!

This is Arnold Finster signing off for CRAZY Magazine...

THE ALIEN GUIDE BOOK TO COMMON EARTH OBJECTS

Writer: Michael Pellowski
Artist: Mike Pardo

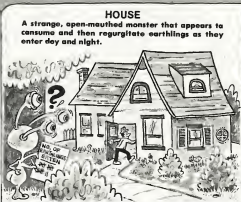

AUTOMOBILE

An odd transportation device used by earthlings to pollute their atmosphere and engage in games on freeways called "fender-benders".

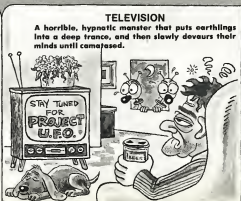

AIRPLANE

A funny type of flying creature that must enjoy playing tag with our saucers because it is always chasing them in the sky.

HOUSE

A strange, open-mouthed monster that appears to consume and then regurgitate earthlings as they enter day and night.

TELEVISION

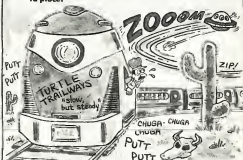

A horrible, hypnotic monster that puts earthlings into a deep trance, and then slowly devours their minds until comatose.

GARBAGE

Undoubtedly the earth's chief product, seeing as how the earthlings produce it at such an amazingly rapid rate.

TRAIN
This is a mass transportation system that earthlings use when they want to be late getting from place to place.

OIL TANKER

Earthlings fill these objects with sticky black liquid and then sink them in their oceans for some unknown reason.

TELEPHONE POLE
An evil earth plant that grows all over the countryside, snaring low-flying saucers in their vines and electrocuting them.

WHISKEY

Earthlings drink this foul-tasting liquid when they want to throw up or lose complete control of their senses and reason.

MONEY
The prize possession of most earthlings who will do anything to accumulate large quantities of it, although it tastes terrible.

A CRAZY LOOK AT A HOSPITAL

Writer: Michael Pallowski

America will soon be in the midst of another oil shortage. As years pass, the energy supply continues to diminish. Soon, there won't be enough oil left to fry an egg. When that day comes, we hope you'll be prepared for the worst. The worst being this article which purports to show you what it will be like...

WHEN AMERICA

Since there will be no gas for cars, people will find other ways to go to work in the summer.

Naturally, people will also have to figure out how to get to their jobs in the wintertime.

The Teamsters' Union will have to make some drastic changes in the trucking industry.

Speed races like the Indianapolis 500 will feature pit crews used instead of motors.

Like the birds in the sky, people will be seen migrating with the change of seasons.

Homes will be heated by wood, and you can guess what that will do to the conservation movement.

And can't you just imagine all the light bulbs in Las Vegas being replaced by wax candles?

RUNS OUT OF ENERGY

Writer: Michael Pollowski

Artist: George Siefinger

Toxicabs in all of the major American cities will be replaced by Chinese rickshaws.

People will still fly yellow birds to Florida, but the trip will take a little longer.

The space race in America will take on severe limitations placed on it.

The risk of nuclear war however, will be decreased as launching a racket will be harder.

The telephone will be replaced by a primitive form of communication invented by the Indians.

Certain home conveniences will be lost forever, like for example the bathroom hair-blower.

Cooking something as simple as a TV dinner will be a real hassle if you're in a hurry.

If's never too late to solve a problem — not even the energy problem — if we all work together and follow some of these...

CRAZY WAYS TO SAVE ENERGY

Turn your thermostat down to 40 degrees in the winter. This will conserve fuel because you'll freeze to death and won't need any more heating oil.

Cover your entire house with glass solar-heating panels. This can be a traumatic experience however, if you happen to be a modest type of person.

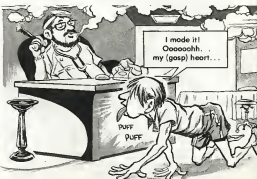

Instead of using electricity, try using candles at night. Just don't fall asleep with the lights on, or being conservative might literally burn you up.

To save on gas, you can use your outdoor barbecue grill as often as possible to cook your meals — only make sure you have good strong teeth.

A good way to save gas is to form car pools wherever you go. Just make sure that everyone in the pool has a full-size car before you start out.

Instead of driving to work, you can jog to the office. However, it's advisable that you have a complete physical first — or you may run out of gas.

Honey, you know I love you! Otherwise do you think I'd be crazy enough to leave these two beauties and come back to you every day?

Another case brilliantly solved by Tan Dandy! I'll send you my bill in the morning!

BAR

Tan, this man's son had his baseball cards stolen by another little boy in school! Your assignment... hustle over to Public School 22, mingle with the students, and find that little boy!

I'm afraid I have to refuse, Rots... I've got my hands full being the bodyguard of another little boy... Orville Precocious III!

That spoiled brat?

Hey, watch it! I won't have you calling my client names! Now, if you'll excuse me, the spoiled brat and I will leave!

I want some ice cream! WAH! Get me some ice cream!

Hoh, hoh... sure, kid! You're real cute, kid! Like to play house, kid? Okay, you be the door and I'll slam you! Now SHADD-UP!

Hey, there's a bad guy following us! I can spot one every time!

A bad guy? (gulp) Y-you think he's after me?

I wouldn't say yes, and I wouldn't say no, kid! I'd say... definitely! He's gonna kill you, kid! Torture you too! He may even eat you! But I wouldn't wish that on him, so I'm gonna give him the slip! Watch this... I'll just squeeze in between this car and the wall here and Hey, stupid! You ain't got your headlights on! I been tryin' to warn ya!

Okay, you're three of my regular girl friends... which one of you will give me a hand guarding this %$&!% #!... er... sweet little kid?

I'm your girl Friday and today is Tuesday... so I guess that leaves me out!

I got a date with a guy who said he'd get me into the movies... and the picture starts in an hour! Sorry!

I can't help either... I'm due at a steno pool and I gotta get into my bathing suit!

Remind me to trade you in for more reliable chicks... like maybe three of Charlie Manson's girls!

Hey! Orville's gone! He's been kidnapped! What happened? You were supposed to watch him!

How can you watch a kid who don't even come up to your belly button? Must've been snatched from right under my armpit!

You're in charge of police files, Belly, maybe you can help me!
I'm looking for kidnapers who specialize in abducting rich

Really? That's nice! I'd like to meet her!

I'll arrange it! She's in the Psycho Ward of the

Tan Dandy! You must be crazy showing your face around here... after pulling that bank holdup a half-hour ago!

But I've been here over an hour! It's a frame, I tell you... a frame! A lousy frame!

This is not the time to talk about bowling, Dandy, you're under arrest! We of the Las Vegas Police

Yeah, yeah, I know... not the hotel, the desert! Now stop it with those stupid jokes! I'm in trouble! Somebody's been impersonating me!

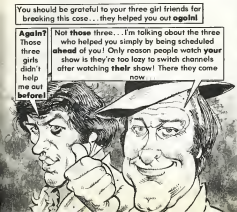

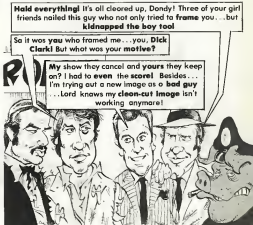

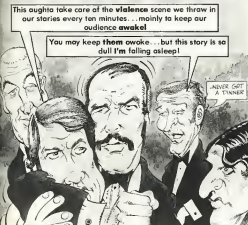

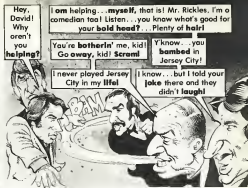

Hey! Maybe I can help you! There's a guy who looks just like you at the MGM Grand... toting some kind of TV show! Now, did you hear the one about the...

I know, I know... the guy who makes a fortune selling doughnuts to midgets for toilet seats! Now let's go to that MGM Grand...

And now, ladies and gentlemen... the guest of honor on our roast tonight... Burt Reynolds!

That's the guy!

Nice of you to compare me to him, David! I'll return the compliment! You look just like another very famous comedian... Jimmy Durante!

MAKE MONEY! GET PRIZES!

THEN LEAVE TOWN!
BECAUSE OF ALL-AMERICAN SEEDS!

You can choose from 100 prizes, 50 gifts or a contract out on your parents, by just selling All-American Seeds! We will send you for a minimal cost (please let us know if indentured slavery is legal in your State) the BOFFO PRIZE CATALOGUE, containing pictures of great-looking toys that never work when they get to you and disappoint you because they're not quite what you expected.

SEND NO MONEY!

(BUT JUST IN CASE, WE KNOW
ALL THE BUS ROUTES TO YOUR SCHOOL.)

Think of the fun you'll have selling All-American Seeds to those old people in the neighborhood, then giving you their last few pennies to later discover the darn seeds don't grow! You'll sell them quickly to eekies, minorities and (but) Uncle who never brings you anything when he visits! Just think of the prize! Or, if you want cash instead, that's tough! The last little boy who wanted to keep some cash met with an unfortunate accident. USE THIS COUPON ONLY! Otherwise, we'll make you do it again and again until you get it right! Now look over at the prizes to sucker you into thinking you'd ever earn enough to get any of these goodies!
